A by-product of the dichotomy of a soul that yearns to explore nature and a brain that seeks to understand all things technical, sprinkled with a healthy variety of production experience from building servers to creating foley sound design, I'm excited for all opportunities to apply my experiences in the world and the trenches of production onto the page. I've written for preschool and kids animation for Warner Bros. and Disney TV Animation in both freelance and staff roles covering 11 and 22 minute formats in addition to promotional shorts.
