BIO:

Reynolds is an Emmy and WGA nominated writer and a Peabody award winner who was most recently the head writer for the Film Independent Spirit Awards on IFC, hosted by Aubrey Plaza, where he also wrote and directed sketches starring Bill Murray. His other late night writing experience includes Comedy Central’s “The President Show” and six years as a staff writer and performer on “Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson” on CBS. He also wrote on the reboot of “Rocky and Bullwinkle” and was the head writer for “The Mr. Peabody and Sherman Show,” both animated series produced by Dreamworks.

Reynolds is an original member of the UCB Theater’s weekend team, “Reuben Williams,” and still performs at the UCBT in LA and NY.

On the “Late Late Show,” Reynolds’ monologue jokes often made the weekly “best of late night” lists. In addition, he wrote and produced many sketches for the show, creating new characters for Craig as well as writing material for Steve Martin, Owen Wilson, Jack Black, Samuel L. Jackson, Tom Lennon, Jim Parsons, Jeffrey Tambor, Henry Winkler, Mary Steenburgen, Dave Foley and author, Salman Rushdie.

He also wrote for Craig’s White House Correspondent’s Dinner and has written comedy pieces and cartoons for “Mad Magazine” and “American Bystander.”

John has developed pilots and various other projects over the past few years with CBS, NBC, Fox, Warner Brothers, Jim Henson, Gary Sanchez, Conaco, History Channel and the Disney Channel.

Here’s a link to an animated short he wrote, starring his four-year-old son called, “Late Night Baby”:
